In We Go
Henry Ford's Questions
Europe Does Not Love Us
An Italian Bulldog

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1926, by the Star Company)

UNCLE SAM IS HEADED FOR THE WORLD COURT, NO DOUBT ABOUT THAT, APPARENTLY.

How soon will the United States slip through the World Court into the League of Nations, and what will be the cost of the slip? That question interests this country.

HENRY FORD, in his Dearborn Independent, asks these questions:

"Are we ready to subordinate the Constitution of the United States to the covenant (or constitution) of the League?

"Are we ready to place the Monroe Doctrine at the disposal of a European court whose principles run counter to it?

"Are we ready to resign our decision as to when, if ever, we shall fight to a court, one of whose powers is to tell us when we must institute an economic boycott and when we must fight to enforce its decrees?

"Have we, as citizens, or has Congress, as our representatives, or has the President, as our chief magistrate, the right or the power to do any of these things? We think not."

TO HENRY FORD'S questions about the World Court add these:

Are we ready to submit to that court the question of Asiatic immigration? Japan will take that question to the court as soon as it is in working order.

Are Southern States willing to submit to the World Court the payment of Confederate bonds issued during the Civil War? That question will be brought up.

ASKING QUESTIONS won't do much good. This country is virtually in the World Court now and will know more about European diplomacy presently than it ever knew before.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS offers a prize of 120,000 francs for an architectural competition. American architects are barred, because we are not in the League of Nations—yet.

One hundred and twenty thousand francs are worth about $4,800, so the American architects can stand it.

MORE UNPLEASANT is the loud applause with which Paris every night greets Marcelle Parisys, when that young lady denounces this country for its "bloodthirsty stinginess," saying: "Honest French girls are taxed to pay the debts of France to those stubborn Americans."

They do not love us in Europe, and our lonesome little representative in the World Court, outnumbered ten or twelve to one, will know it when he takes his seat as the joke of that court.

GREAT IS THE power of courageous initiative. You understand how Alexander, with his handful of men, could scatter the gigantic Persian army, including the Persian war elephants, when you read about the Italian bulldog of Turin.

MITCHELL WILL SUE TO AVOID STIGMA IN ARMY RESIGNATION

Washington, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—Colonel William Mitchell resigned today from the army.

The convicted air officer, under sentence of five years' suspension from the army because of his criticism of government aviation policies, put his resignation in this single sentence:

"I hereby tender my resignation as an officer of the United States army, to take effect February 1, 1926."

The letter was dated today and addressed to the Adjutant General of the army through the commanding general of the district of Washington.

Whether the resignation will be accepted had not been fully developed. Some army precedents indicate that in such cases withdrawals from the army should state directly that the resignation is submitted "for the good of the service."

The final decision will rest with President Coolidge, who two days ago approved with modifications the sentence of the court-martial. He sustained the five years' suspension, but reduced somewhat the court's finding that he should be without pay or allowances.

It is the belief of Mitchell's friends that if he is permitted to step out he will accept an offer to continue on the lecture platform his crusade for reorganization of the national defense to give a more prominent place to the development of air power.

Should the President return the letter of resignation because of Colonel Mitchell's failure to say he is leaving "for the good of the service" there is considerable doubt where the succeeding developments might lead.

It is the impression of the colonel's intimate friends that he would stubbornly resist any effort to put him in a position of saying the armed services would be improved by his withdrawal.

His partisans also point out that the right of the President to refuse to accept the resignation in peace time never has been tested in the courts.

By precedents, however, this right

LEVIATHAN ARRIVES, BATTERED BY STORM

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—King Neptune scrawled a tempestuous diary in the log of the steamship Leviathan, the biggest liner flying the American flag, during the voyage from Cherbourg that ended today.

Although gales of hurricane force, seas and violent squalls hounded the monarch craft throughout the voyage and made it two days late, few marks were left by the fury of the storm.

Sophie Tucker, vaudeville actress, who had been appearing in a London cabaret, ended her futile race against death when she arrived on the Leviathan, only to learn that her mother, Mrs. Jennie Abuza, had died at Hartford, Ct. The funeral was delayed pending Miss Tucker's arrival.

When she learned of her mother's illness she cancelled her engagement in London and hurriedly sailed for this country.

Captain Herbert Hartley, commander of the Leviathan, said the hurricanes encountered were the worst he had experienced in thirty-three years on the sea. Yet the only

NEW DISEASE FOUND IN HAVERHILL CASES

The strange malady which has affected thirty persons in Haverhill is a new disease, Dr. Edwin H. Place, head of the contagious disease department of Boston City Hospital, today informed members of the Haverhill Board of Health.

At the request of the Haverhill authorities, Dr. Place made blood tests and examined cultures of those suffering from the disease and is now positive that he has never encountered it before. He has become so interested in it, he told the Haverhill officials, that he intends to go to their city to make a close study of the disease.

It bears a remote resemblance to a disease that swept Europe two years ago, Dr. Place said. Symptoms are a high temperature, rash, rheumatic pains in the joints and severe pains in the head and back. At first it was believed that the disease was influenza.

Helen Wills, American tennis star, who has spurned several marriage offers, including one from a British Lord.

HELEN WILLS SPURNS HAND OF BRITISH LORD

Cannes, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—Rumors are going the rounds that Miss Helen Wills has received two offers of marriage—one from a noble lord of the British aristocracy and the other from a plebian professional tennis player.

Both offers were rejected. They were made during the past three days, it is said.

Matrimony is not on the program of Miss Wills at present. She is declared to have conveyed knowledge of this fact to the titled Englishman and the tennis player who sought her hand.

"I won't deny that I have had offers of marriage, and I won't confirm the rumor," said the American champion today.

"But," she added, "if you are a betting man please lay odds that I shall return to California single, if not singles champion."

Ten thousand francs against 6,000 that Suzanne Lenglen will win over Miss Wills when they meet were offered at the end of the match between the American girl and Miss Bendit, who was disposed of easily, 6—1, 6—0.

Even money was offered that Helen does not win more than seven games from the French flash and that she will lose in straight sets.

This money also went begging. A week ago Mlle. Lenglen was the favorite to win, but the experts all believe now that the American champion is holding something in reserve and therefore have shortened their odds.

GOVERNMENT CHARGES CHELSEA MAYOR WAS LEADER OF 'RUM RING'

As the trial of the thirty-one defendants in the alleged "Chelsea Rum Ring" resumed in Federal Court today, three of the indicted men changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty.

The three, who faced trial with Mayor Lawrence E. Quigley, policemen and city notables, and who recanted their former please were: Louis Barlow, Samuel Gerscovitz and Joseph (Dodo) Henry.

Previously Samuel Berger had pleaded guilty, so now a quartet are separated from their co-defendants.

When the long list of names of defendants was read as court opened there was no answer when the name of Daniel (Red) Murphy was called.

In a short time, however, Murphy appeared, received an oral chas-

R. I. LAW TO BAN 'BABY BRIDES,' CURB DIVORCE

Providence, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Avoidance of hasty and secret marriages and of divorce collusion are objects of revised marriage laws submitted to Governor Pothier today by the marriage and divorce commission created by the General Assembly last April. The proposed laws will be submitted to the General Assembly at its present session.

If they are approved, the legal age will be raised from eighteen years, as at present, to eighteen for females and the present fourteen years to eighteen years for males. Common law marriages will not be recognized.

Persons shall not marry for at least three days after receiving a marriage license. No minister or elder shall be permitted to perform the

600 TO BE ERASED FROM DRY PAYROLL

Washington, Jan. 27 (I.N.S.)—More than 600 prohibition agents will be dropped from the government's payroll within a few weeks.

An order issued by General L. C. Andrews that administrators must get rid of all [illegible] type agents" has resulted in the discharge of many agents.

Dry forces will be [illegible] in the [illegible] States where prohibition laws are effective. In the wet States an additional number of "under cover" men will be employed in seeking to eliminate sources of supply.

It was understood that Comptroller General J. R. McCarl has notified the Treasury that more than half of the prohibition appropriation of $11,000,000 has been expended.

SEN. STEPHENS FLAYS COURT 'PREJUDICES'

Washington, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—The drastic restrictions of cloture failed today to stem the current of debate as the Senate moved toward a final vote on the World Court.

The old League of Nations controversy, the policies of Woodrow Wilson, and many other issues were argued out again, and once or twice the debate touched also on religious tolerance and the Ku Klux Klan.

The leaders remained confident that a final roll call would be reached before adjournment tonight, although a score of reservations remained pending and the first two hours of the session were taken up without a vote on any of them. They all were offered by the court's opponents, and the bi-partisan group urging American membership felt sure they had the votes to kill them all, and then ratify the court itself.

SENATOR BORAH IN FIGHT TO CURB BRITAIN'S POWER IN COURT

FINAL VOTE HELD UP BY DEBATE

From packed galleries a distinguished company of spectators listened to the debate. Among them were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who on two occasions within the past week had gone to the Capitol to hear policies of the War President attacked and defended in the Senate chamber.

STEPHENS IRONICAL.

The Ku Klux Klan was brought into the debate by Senator Stephens, Democrat, Mississippi, who declared the kleagles and dragons of the hooded order were "sleeping in the same bed" with Roman Catholics in an effort to defeat the Court.

Senator Stephens declared that "no poet, no matter how vivid his imagination, has drawn a blacker picture of man than the Catholic has painted of the Ku Klux and the Ku Klux has painted of the Catholic."

"And yet we find them here together," he said. "I have often wondered if when the Ku Kluxer wakes up and sees a figure beside him horned and hooded and the Catholic looks over and sees a figure hooded and masked at his side—I have often wondered which would make the greatest effort to get away from the other.

"Let the Irish Catholic, let the Ku Kluxer look to the great interest of the United States of America. Let them lay aside their feelings of passion, prejudice and hate—hate against England, hate against each other. Hate and passion are mighty forces. They override judgment, lead away from the path of right."

MOSES SPEAKS.

The Senate first took up today the reservation offered by Sen. Moses, prohibiting enforcement of judgments of the court by war "under any name or in any form whatever."

Senator Moses told the Senate his purpose was to make the court a "real instrument of peace to the extent at least that it will not be an instrument of war," but Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, argued that the reservation would destroy the court as an instrument of peace.

"It would make the court a shield for wrongdoing," said Senator Lenroot, "instead of a tribunal of justice."

Senator Borah declared the League of Nations by sanction must enforce decrees of the court.

"If the other nations want to go to war it is none of our business," Senator Lenroot replied.

"Then there is force here," Senator Moses interjected. "This must be either then an instrument of peace or war, and if it is now one of war."

Assailing the Moses reservation, Senator Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, declared it "merely asks the United States to close the door on itself before we have an opportunity to enter the Court."

Another strenuous effort was to be made by the irreconcilables over Senator Borah's reservation proposing to limit the British Empire to a single vote in the election of judges.

COL. MITCHELL RESIGNS

has come to be generally recognized, and some War Department officers believe it would survive the test of litigation, particularly in the case of an officer who is under sentence for insubordination and conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

These officers assert that Mitchell's supporters would be at a great disadvantage in making such test because the colonel long has been a storm centre.

Last Spring he was refused reappointment as assistant chief of the air service, with the rank of brigadier general, because officers over him regarded him as lacking in the ability to cooperate in carrying out military policies.

Acceptance of the resignation by the President would automatically commute the sentence and give Mitchell full civilian rights.

Washington, Jan. 27 (I.N.S.).—Colonel Mitchell late today said he resigned to be better able to carry on his fight for reform in the national defence.

"The mere condition of staying in the service was secondary in my mind to the welfare of the country," said Mitchell.

"As ranking officer in the flying forces, I felt it incumbent upon me to take the initiative and bring the coutry to a realization of our air conditions."

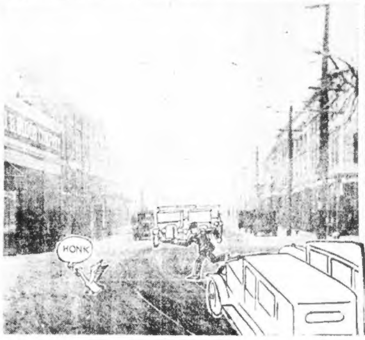
ALL THE HONKERS ARRESTED BY LYNN POLICE ARE NOT AUTOISTS!



This is how things were at Summer and Pleasant streets, Lynn, when the strong arm of the law swooped down upon Mrs. A. Goose, scorner of traffic laws, autos' honks and cops.

Mrs. A. Goose gets a ride in "the wagon" following her arrest by Patrolmen Wall and Murphy in Lynn on charges of blocking traffic, resisting arrest and a few other things that might cost her life.

SO IT HAS COME TO THIS!

Mrs. A. Goose in her cell. Patrolman Vaughan of Lynn is shown with her. Although of the more deadlier of the species she was booked as mere "A. Goose"—no Mrs. or Miss.

VET HOSPITAL DENOUNCED AS 'FIRE TRAP'

The West Roxbury Hospital for Disabled Veterans is a firetrap, Dr. William A. R. Chapin of Springfield today told the Massachusetts Department, American Legion, at the mid-Winter get-together in the State House.

The charge was contained in the report of the department hospitalization committee and created a furore among the legionaires.

Referring to the medical treatment of disabled vets, which he said is generally good, Dr. Chapin declared there is room for improvement at the Chelsea Naval Hospital as regards rheumatic patients.

The report recommended a new Metropolitan hospital which, in addition to caring for men, would be available for the ills of 200 ex-service women, now forced to go to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

PLEADS FOR WOMEN.

Dr. Chapin contended that women are entitled to the same benefits as men, and he thought this matter should receive the immediate attention of the State Department.

Referring to the rheumatic patients at Chelsea, Dr. Chapin said some of them are housed a considerable distance from the hospital, and are forced to go out in the cold when treatment is necessary. As a result, he said, their rheumatic pains are sometimes more severe after treatment than before.

The get-together, held annually, was more spirited than usual, owing to the presence in Boston of National Commander John Rae McQuigg, who will be guest of honor at a banquet tonight.

McQUIGG RAPS PACIFISTS.

The banquet will be given in the Copley-Plaza, and the speakers will include Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols, Major-General Preston Brown, Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, and the state commanders of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion Auxiliary.

"Ultra-pacifists" were denounced as "misinformed and misled" by Commander McQuigg before the opening of the get-together.

Most of the pacifists are in the Eastern section of the country, he declared, and their efforts just now are devoted against the organized reserve and reserve officers training corps in schools and colleges.

The legion commander was greeted in the Hub today by his daughter, Pauline, teacher in Wesleyan Seminary, Kent's Hill, Me., whom he will accompany to Maine tomorrow.

$19,000,000 FOR VETS.

Captain William J. Blake, regional manager for the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, reported to the Get-Together that during 1925 a total of $19,753,962 was expended for disabled veterans of Massachusetts. He added that 196,949 checks were sent out, there were 9,500 compensation awards, and there are 35,00 cases at the office today.

Captain Blake urged his hearers to broadcast that every ex-service man who took part in any war since 1897 is entitled to hospital service for any disability at all. In other words, if a service man is injured in an accident or is stricken with appendicitis, he may have hospital service.

GOOSE MAY YET HANG HIGH IN LYNN

A goose in the goosegow!

Not on the platter with stark legs upturned, but a real noisy, lively, loquacious goose, booked on the Lynn police blotter as "A. Goose, vagrant." A. Goose spent the night in cell No. 13.

The fifteen-pound bird was taken into custody by two minions of the law, to wit, Patrolmen John P. Wall and William J. Murphy, after she, for it's a lady goose, blocked traffic in Summer street and seemed to take great delight in so doing.

Autoists sounded their horns but she refused to give them the right-of-way and held to her course in the middle of the street, waddling along with stubborn persistence.

Came the two officers to see what the trouble was, and why the traffic tie-up. If A. Goose or Mrs. A. Goose had been a coward, she would have ducked then and there; but, no, she kept her course in the middle of the track.

Patrolman Wall tip-toed up from behind, seized A. Goose by the nape of the neck and in a few minutes she was being whisked off in the "wagon" to the police station.

She spent a restless night in her cell but greeted her jailor cheerily today. Unless she can prove that she has some visible means of support she may go the way of all goose flesh.

3 BOY COASTERS HURT BY AUTO IN MEDFORD

Three Medford boys, ten to twelve years old, were seriously injured today in a coasting accident on Madison street, West Medford, when their sled struck an automobile owned and operated by Harry J. Grafe of No. 44 Milton street, Arlington.

Grafe rushed the boys to Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford, where all were found to be suffering from broken bones.

They were Harold Gillette, twelve, of No. 112 Arlington street; Rocco Alosso, eleven, of No. 105 Arlington street, and Archie Cooper, ten, of No. 15 Sherman street.

SOPHIE TUCKER ARRIVES ON LEVIATHAN

damage done to the Leviathan was a bent deck rail.

There were no injuries reported among the 1,122 passengers. The list was increased by one with the birth of a baby during the stormy voyage.

The worst weather was on Sunday, when the liner made only seventy-eight miles. The log for that day read: "Whole westerly gale; mountainous seas; violent squalls."

While the storm was at its worst on Sunday, the Leviathian wireless operator, heard faintly the SOS call sent out by the British freighter Antinoe, about 600 miles away. The radio communication between the United States Liner President Roosevelt and the Aquitania to decide which should go to the distressed freighter's aid also was heard.

The Leviathian will go into drydock in Boston this week.

The liners Aquitania and France are expected to arrive in New York tomorrow.

54 Still in Peril on Two Ships in Midocean

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.).—The fate of 54 men of the crews of the British freighters Antinoe and Laristan, floundering in a storm for the past three days, was still in doubt today.

Six men of the Laristan were rescued by the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, but 24 men are still aboard the stricken vessel. The United States liner President Roosevelt, which lost two of its crew in efforts to give succor to the Antinoe, was still standing by her today.

A wireless message from the Bremen to the Hoboken office of the North German Lloyd line today said the severe northwest storm still was raging and because of the heavy seas it was impossible to launch lifeboats. The Bremen was still standing by the Laristan awaiting an opportunity to take off the remainder of the crew.

Five of the dozen passenger liners that had been battling toward Atlantic ports, one to two days late in the teeth of the storm, arrived safely. They were the Transylvania, Duilico, Guiseppe Verdi, Mt. Royal and Regina.

The President Roosevelt reported the Antinoe's ability to keep afloat doubtful. Captain Fried, in a message, however, said he hoped to keep her in view. He has been standing by the freighter in a blinding snowstorm since Sunday.

The Laristan with a cargo of coal was bound from Swansea to New York. The Antinoe was carrying a cargo of wheat from New York to Queenstown.

WOMEN NO LONGER REVERE REVERE

Revere women back move for annexation to Boston, Anna Abkowitz, left, and Jennie Ancella, carrying a petition of thousands of residents to the hearing at the State House today.

Gales Moderate, and More Ships Come Into Boston

Indications on Boston's waterfront are that the gales that have swept the North Atlantic several days are moderating.

A radio received from Captain Porta, commander of the Dollar liner President Harrison, completing her seventh round-the-world passage, said he would arrive at the Army Base Friday morning, three days late, with fourteen passengers for Boston and much cargo.

Reports from Bermuda indicated the American flag steamer Westerner had put in there to refuel and had started again for Boston on Monday.

The Dutch steamer Maasburg, four days late from Rotterdam, radioed conditions were better and she will arrive tomorrow.

The British steamer Sable I, Captain Renouf, came in from St. John's, Newfoundland; St. Pierre, Miquelon; North Sydney and Halifax, N. S., a day late. Captain Renouf reported steady gales throughout his passage.

REVERE FOLK CHEER PLEA FOR ANNEXATION

Thousands of Names on Petition Filed at the State House Hearing

Predictions that the annexation of Revere would form an opening wedge for a Greater Boston and charges that the Revere Chamber of Commerce "has never accomplished anythng for Revere" featured the hearing at the State House today of a petition of Revere taxpayers that Boston annex the city.

No opposition developed, but the hearing was continued until next Monday morning to permit the Mayor of Boston to be heard on the petition.

Some 200 Revereites broke into frenzied applause when the petition containing thousands of names was unrolled by members of the Revere Taxpayers' Association, Inc. Many women were among the group.

The petition was represented by Attorney Albert Hurwitz, who asserted it was not a political bill, but one sponsored by the responsible citizens of Revere. Hurwitz traced the history of previous annexations of other districts to Boston, and declared that had it not been for these annexations, the population of Boston would have decreased.

PROVIDES REFERENDUM.

Hurwitz pointed out that it was by annexation that New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles became great municipalities.

He expressed the opinion Revere's huge tax rate would drop after annexation.

He said Revere would give Boston eight or ten small parks, three major playgrounds, one main and three branch libraries and seventeen school houses. He maintained that all the bill contained was a referendum giving the people of Boston and Revere a chance to express their own opinions on annexation.

Representative Michael F. Shaw assailed transportation problems in Rvere, while J. E. Sheehan, president of the association, said: "The population of Revere is composed of native Bostonians, and 95 per cent. of our men earn their livelihood in Boston. All we want to do is to return to the mother town, which, as Rumley Marsh, we once belonged to."

HIGH TAXES.

Bernard W. Berkowitz, attorney, characterized the Revere Chamber of Commerce as a body that "held a banquet in February and an outing in July. It exists in name only."

M. S. Kondacian, business man, also assailed the chamber, and asserted he was paying $1,100 a year taxes on his house.

Other speakers in favor of the bill were Philip R. Seller, Isadore Gorlon, Point of Pines, and M. W. Collins, former representative from Charlestown, now living in Revere.

At the conclusion of today's hearing a rising vote showed everyone present from Revere in favor of annexation.

OLIVE BELL HAMON

Olive Belle Hamon, beautiful daughter of the late Jake L. The spirit to win, the pluck and perseverance which marked the career of Jake Hamon, are seen in the theatrical efforts of his daughter. She's willowy and titian-haired, with melting eyes of brown. "I never knew a thing about the stage," she confided. "It was all so new and strange and fascinating. But I wanted to succeed and here I am."

Like Mellie Dunham, Ford protege, Olive finds fiddling comes easy. But her's are not those of old days, nor are the dances with which she is wont to delight theatre patrons in Boston and other cities on the "wheel"

YOUNG WOOD ACCUSED OF BAD CHECKS

Havana, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—Osborne Wood, son of Governor-General Leonard A. Wood of the Philippines, at the Hotel Sevilla-Biltmore today, said he knew nothing of charges against him of passing worthless checks in Florida, and declared he would go immediately to Palm Beach to straighten out matters.

Wood said that he would leave for Florida today if accommodations were available. Otherwise, he said, he would leave Havana tomorrow morning.

West Palm Beach, Jan. 27.—Osborne Cutler Wood, son of Governor-General Leonard A. Wood of the Philippines, is again just three jumps ahead of the sheriff.

This time, the rather notorious son of a noted father, has run afoul the law, it is alleged, by skipping out of this city leaving a wake of allegedly worthless checks behind him.

It is believed by operatives of a local detective agency, called in by a bank to investigate the alleged worthless checks, that young Wood, formerly a lieutenant in the U. S. Army, has gone to Havana.

It is charged that young Wood checked out of a local hotel and disappeared. After he failed to appear it was found, so the bank charges, that he cashed several worthless checks.

Wood had been in this city since last Christmas when he returned after a two-month's visit in New York. He has recently been selling real estate for a Tampa firm.

'SHEIK' WANTS LOVE VACATION

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—Rudolph Valentino, motion picture star, who was recently divorced by his wife, the former Winifred Hudnut, in Paris, returned today on the steamship Leviathan enjoying his "restoration to bachelorhood."

Valentino said that he deplored rumors which linked his name with that of Mae Murray, movie actress, as the principals in a possible matrimonial match. He said he wanted to have "a little vacation" from matrimony, and asserted it was mere coincidence which landed him and Mae Murray on the same train from Southern France to Paris, and later to Berlin.

"I did not know she was going to Paris, nor did she know I was, and certainly we did not know we would be on the same train for Berlin."

Valentino did not visit Italy while abroad.

$100,000 BALM SUIT RECALLS HUB ROMANCE

George Brinton Caldwell, New York trading stamp king and head of the Springfield Body Company of Springfield, who was sued for breach of promise by Zoe M. Evans, Hotel Touraine manicurist, fourteen months ago, is again a defendant in a "heart balm" action.

Caldwell, former head of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, who married Miss Marion Andrews, a Maine school teacher, is this time being sued by Clara Eda Shiras, a comely divorcee nearly thirty years his junior.

Mrs. Shiras, a [illegible] woman, brought suit in the Supreme Court, Manhattan, alleging [illegible] her affections have been [illegible] to the extent of $100,000.

Miss Evans, on the other hand, wanted $500,000 to assuage the grief which the [illegible] trading stamp [illegible] contracted marriage with a young woman known as the most attractive [illegible] in Westbrook, Me.

As far as could be learned, the suit of the Boston manicurist never went to trial.

As happened in the suit of the Boston manicurist, Caldwell made a general denial of everything except the fact he married Miss Andrews.

Admitting he had met Mrs. Shiras several times, the former trading stamp king said he had twice sent her flowers and that she entertained him for two weeks at her country home. He said he never made the slightest suggestion that he intended marrying her.

He admitted [illegible] helping Mrs. Shiras put on her evening gown when they were going to the theatre. He said he told her he liked her in that gown, [illegible] he meant he liked her [illegible].

Referring to her [illegible] with the former trading stamp king, Mrs. Shiras said:

"He always was affectionate. He called me 'darling' at all times. He always would put his arms around me and tell me what a wonderful woman I was. I loved him. I didn't repel him—after I was certain that he was sincere. He would kiss me every time we met."

Caldwell is sixty-three and Mrs. Shiras is thirty-six.

FLOWERS FOR COMPANY.

A letter, said to have been written by Caldwell, and dated [illegible] 17, 1924, was introduced in evidence. It read:

"Flowers, my dear, are emblems of love and purity. Both are cardinal points in your viewpoint on life [illegible] and I can go on exemplifying [illegible] point through life. My shoulders are broad and can be your [illegible]. It was so hard to leave you [illegible]ning. Do not let us destroy anything, but let us see if we cannot build something worth while."

Miss Evans, who said she met Caldwell in the way of business, in emplifying the "divinity that shapes our ends," as someone has put it, displayed letters breathing [illegible] passion.

One alleged to have been written by the millionaire to the manicurist, read:

"I don't know when I have found a sweeter, more affectionate [illegible] class little lady than you. I [illegible] of you often and rather long [illegible] love and affection.

"Have asked my florist to have some florist in Boston deliver you some flowers Saturday for your apartment and Sunday company."

BOOTLESS ROMANCE WRECKED

Wife Admits Her Male Friend Stole Her Shoe, While She Hid Her Husband's

Mrs. Clara Pass of Commonwealth avenue, sued for divorce by her husband, admitted today in Middlesex Probate Court that Morris Jacobson, named as corespondent in the case, once took off her shoe in the North Station waiting room and playfully kept it to prevent her keeping another "date."

Asked if she had a "good friend," a Mrs. Richmond, [illegible] that Jacobson loved her, Mrs. Pass replied:

"I have no [illegible] But [illegible] loved me."

[illegible]

The case came to an end with the completion of her cross-examination by Attorney Abraham C. Lourie, counsel for the husband. Judge Leggat took the matter under advisement.

The judge told Attorney Lourie there was no need for him to call attention to matters in the testimony, as Lourie wished to do, and he dispensed with closing arguments.

"Did you tell Mrs. Richmond Jacobson told you he loved you and hoped to marry you, and would marry you if you were free?" Mrs. Pass was asked before the case ended.

"Yes," she replied. "But he also said that I ought not to live with a man like Pass who would bring the charges against me that he did.

"I wouldn't go to see my children because 'the old lady' insulted me," she said, referring to her mother-in-law.

Mrs. Pass admitted living under an assumed name in the apartment on Commonwealth avenue.

"I was known there as Mrs. Pantell," she said. "I didn't want the whole world to know about me."

"What did you say when Jacobson called you 'the sweetest girl in the world' at a lawyer's office?" she was asked by Attorney Lourie.

"I said nothing to change his opinion; why should I?" retorted Mrs. Pass.

"Do you recall telling an employe of your husband's that all you wanted to get was $1,000?"

"Yes, and I recall telling him to tell it to Pass, so as to make him feel bad. He used to tell me to commit suicide or go to work when I asked him for money."

ATTACK ON AL SMITH'S LIFE ATTEMPTED

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27 (A.P.)—State attaches of Governor Smith at the capitol today is believed by officials of the executive department to have saved him from attack by a shell shocked war veteran seeking [illegible] of his bonus, who penetrated into the Governor's private office [illegible] being stopped by attaches.

The former soldier, whose name and address is not known by the Governor's aides, leaped over a brass railing, ran through a large reception room and succeeded in passing [illegible] another office before reaching the Governor's private office. The Governor was not there, but the secretary, George R. Graves, intercepted the man and asked his business.

He wanted to see the Governor, and quickly, he said.

"Certainly," Mr. Graves replied, "he is right down here," and led the man down a secret stairway to the offices of the State Prison department on the floor below. In the meantime others had got in touch with the State Hospital department, and when Graves and the intruder reached the prison offices, they were met by a doctor, who took charge of the man.

The man frightened [illegible]. Mr. Graves explained that he had been a frequent visitor to the executive offices, but each time had been referred to military [illegible] for adjustment on his complaint.

PLAN AIR FORCE OF 21,000 MEN

The War Department's five-year program [illegible] was outlined to the House [illegible] affairs committee today by Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service.

If the program is carried out the air service will have in five years 1,800 planes, 1,900 officers and 19,000 men, Patrick declared.

The expense of maintaining the force would be between [illegible] and $50,000,000 annually.

Patrick recommended that Congress give legislative definition to the specific duties of the proposed air [illegible] and [illegible] service so that further [illegible] over coast and land defense [illegible] prevented.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE TONIGHT

Fair and colder weather, with possibly a light snowfall tonight or tomorrow, is the local forecast for the next [illegible] hours.

The flaky flurry that fell last night while New England slept was the tail end of a severe storm from the Northwest.

At White River Junction early today the mercury dropped to 22 below and through the upper Merrimack Valley there was a drop of twenty degrees.

The minimum temperature here during the last twenty-four hours was 20 and this too was the mercury mark early today.

RABBIS PLEDGE AID IN ENFORCING DRY LAW

Washington, Jan. 27 (I.N.S.)—Steps to repulse a counter attack against the government's campaign to check a big flow of sacramental liquor into bootleg channels were taken by General L. C. Andrews, prohibition czar, today.

Rabbis representing four recognized national Jewish organizations, pledged their support to the government to eliminate from the list of wine permit eligibles hundreds of unauthorized persons claiming to be rabbis or members of Jewish or [illegible].

RADIO USED IN SEARCH FOR 'ELOPERS'

[illegible] search was begun today by Boston [illegible] Weymouth police [illegible] Cape Cod [illegible] pers, who are presumably on a [illegible] fifty dollar "honeymoon," and for whom inquiry was sent out over the radio.

Harvey Riopel, eighteen years old, [illegible] Sandwich, and Jane McKenzie, Bourne High School freshman, are the principals in the mystery.

On Sunday the Weymouth police received a mysterious telephone message. The voice, a girl's, said she was at Mrs. Mildred Dawes' home and that a young man was trying to induce her to elope with him.

But Mrs. Dawes was not [illegible] in Weymouth now, and has not [illegible] last Summer.

The boy's father, a Sandwich insurance agent, was worried, he said, because the couldn't have had more than $50 between them.

"My son [illegible] turned over his salary to me and I gave him spending money out of it," said the elder Riopel. "Last Saturday he didn't give me his pay and I learned he had boarded a train with the girl. I knew they wished to get married, but holy smoke, how are they going to stage a honeymoon [illegible] days on $50?"

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] McKenzie, parents of the girl, [illegible] out a warrant against [illegible] Riopel.

McKenzie said [illegible] had no intention of eloping [illegible] Saturday morning and [illegible] must have [illegible]

THAT BULLDOG had confidence in himself, and that is a wonderful quality. You had [illegible] nation and this administration lack that confidence. George Washington had it. And for that reason this is not a British colony.

A GATHERING of religious gentlemen, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, met to discuss the injection of religion into public schools. The meeting naturally broke up in a row when somebody suggested as a compromise reading the Ten Commandments out loud every day.

ONE LADY from the National Security League objected to "Thou shalt not kill," saying it is "pacifist propaganda."

Before the meeting was over Catholic gentlemen said their church had been insulted. Protestants said that Jesus Christ had been insulted. A few atheists present smiled. Why not leave religion out of public schools, as we leave it out of government? Must that American plan be changed?

DR. JOHN LESTER, speaking to college men, says snobbishness rules. Boys from public high schools are rejected by university examining boards; boys from expensive private schools are favored.

Private school applicants for college examinations have increased 23 per cent, applicants from public high schools have fallen off 20 per cent.

That annoys pure democracy. You need not pity the high school boys. They go into real life and nine cases out of ten are more fortunate than those that devote four years to "rah-rahing" and come out of college four years behind the procession.

ENVOYS SASSY AND SPEEDY AT THE CAPITAL

Washington, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—Charges that some of Washington's diplomatic colony are everything but diplomatic, at least when accosted by traffic policemen, were contained in a memorandum sent the State Department today by the city commissioners.

It was related that when Senor Don Carlos Mantilla, attache of the Ecuadorean legation, was called to book for over-parking, he said that if he should choose to leave the car in the middle of Sixteenth street, it would be none of your damned business." Senor Don Carlos, it was asserted, also used "insulting and profane language" concerning the policeman's conduct and that "of district police officers in general."

The commissioners called attention to the charge that Baron [illegible] Vavander Elst, second secretary of the Belgian embassy, was driving 55 miles an hour through Massachusetts avenue traffic on Jan. 20.

NEW $700,000 HOSPITAL FOR CHRONIC ILLS

Ground Will Be Broken on March 1 for Buildings on Riverway

The rout of diseases now called chronic is the objective of the New England Deaconess Association in connection with the new Palmer Memorial Hospital, for which ground will be broken in the Riverway on March 1, it was announced today.

At present the Palmer Hospital is at Blue Hill avenue and Seaver street, Dorchester, but this property has been sold for $425,000.

Anonymous donors whose purses have augmented this sum have made possible the new hospital for the beginning of a battle against the so-called chronic diseases, and A. H. Avery, chairman of the executive committee of the association, estimates that ultimately $700,000 will be needed to equip the institution completely for best efficiency.

CO-OPERATIVE LABORATORY.

Cancer, rheumatism, diabetes, asthma and other disorders called chronic have heretofore been treated in a few hospitals having a total bed capacity of less than 200.

According to plans a modern laboratory will be fitted up and will be used on a co-operative basis by four other hospitals within a mile radius.

Dr. E. P. Joslin, who will be in charge of the medical department, declares that the new idea will enable nearby hospitals to take patients now whom they were forced to turn away.

C. W. Williams, executive secretary of the committee has been interested in hospitalization work for a number of years and was a big factor in planning the new building. A nurses home may be erected as soon as funds are available.

BLOCK HOSPITAL TYPE.

The new building will be of the block hospital type with a sun parlor on the roof. Entrances will be at the Pilgrim road and Riverway.

Dr. Daniel Fiske Jones will be chairman of the staff and surgeon-in-chief. Diagnosis work will be handled by Dr. Warren Shields of Boston, now with the Rockefeller Institute of New York.

President Lowell of Harvard, Mrs. Lowell, Dr. Robert Greenough, head of the Harvard Cancer Commission, Dr. Rufus Cole of the Rockefeller Institute, Dr. Wood of the New York Cancer Commission and many others are interested in the plans of the committee.

HANDEL-HAYDN PROGRAM AT JORDAN'S

Handel and Haydn day in the closing week program of the Diamond Jubilee at Jordan Marsh Company featured an address on "Musical Boston, Old and New," by Courtenay Guild, president of the Handel and Haydn Society, also a number of selections by the Triqua Ensemble of that society.

In opening his address, Mr. Guild paid a hearty tribute to the pioneer work of both the Jordans and the Marshes in the field of music, and brought to the attention of his audience the fact that the New England Conservatory, and the Boston Opera House were both founded through the interest and encouragement of the Jordans.

The Handel and Haydn Society was first formed in 1815, and he described the evolution of music, giving anecdotes and witticisms that were well received.

The Triqua Ensemble of the woman's chorus of the society was composed of the Misses Elsie Carleton, Ethel Dyffryn, Estelle Howe, Ruth Littlefield, Sarah Haines, Helen Hill, Belle Kuhns, Elizabeth Rose and Bernice Rich.

The accompanist, Miss M. Elizabeth Griffith, appeared for her minuet number in a gown that had been worn by Julia Ward Howe at the time of her presentation at the Court of St. James.

Today will be devoted to melodies of the old South, and a genuine colored quartet has been brought on for the occasion. Negro spirituals and plantation songs will be given in the Assembly Hall.

NINE POINTERS ON HOW TO PREVENT TIRE LOSS

British monopoly on the rubber supply of the world has roused manufacturers to study ways and means of making automobile tires last long and thus strike back at the tight control which is forcing up the price of rubber goods.

Here are nine suggestions prepared after a careful study, which auto manufacturers [illegible] motorists as the only way of combatting [illegible].

Learn [illegible] your tires [illegible] gauge—[illegible] that four pounds' loss of pressure in a balloon tire of a certain [illegible] for which the correct pressure [illegible] be 20 pounds, is [illegible] the loss of [illegible] much [illegible] correspo[illegible].

Avoid [illegible] when it [illegible] help the [illegible] lead by [illegible] overloading is likely [illegible] ous change your [illegible] ones.

Anything which [illegible] drag with [illegible] instead of running [illegible] the rubber [illegible] is normal. Check [illegible] day to see [illegible] tire service [illegible] various [illegible] These include [illegible] er [illegible].

TUBE CARE.

The destruction of a tube often is started when it is being mounted, through its being pinched under the tire tool or under the bead of the tire. In straightening [illegible] should be carefully [illegible] applied. A wrinkled [illegible] tube, causing [illegible] The lock nut on the valve stem should be tightly screwed down, as should the valve cap.

DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVERS STILL RUN WILD

AUTO DEMAND BRISK

Continued prosperity in the automotive industry is assured for the present at least by reason of schedules of manufacturers for the month of January. No great falling off is noted in any of the schedules and in some cases production is keeping [illegible] of the December record. This [illegible] where companies are offering new models and have only a short time to facilitate their output.

The Auburn company is planning to build [illegible] before the [illegible] next month. The Chrysler company will produce about forty [illegible] cars [illegible] this month. A [illegible] in Detroit to house a [illegible] plant.

The Cleveland company is turning out about 65 cars daily. The Franklin company total for the month will [illegible] cars. General Motors sold [illegible] at retail last year, including Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick and Cadillac.

January production plans of the Oakland call for [illegible] cars, including the new Pontiac [illegible] car, the [illegible]. About [illegible] Oldsmobile cars will be turned out this month. The Peerless company is making 50 cars a day. The Willys-Overland company plans to spend several million [illegible] improvements this year.

The part [illegible] play in [illegible] ways is [illegible] cured by the American Automobile Association from the Traffic Bureau at Washington, D. C., which made an analysis of [illegible].

The Washington Traffic Bureau found that [illegible] accidents reported for the month of [illegible]. There were [illegible] and twenty-one [illegible] in Washington during that month.

Reduction of [illegible] on wet days is [illegible].

ALCOHOL BEST ANTI-FREEZE

Failure to take the precaution to keep the right kind of anti-freezing solution in radiators costs American motorists hundreds of thousands of dollars in repair bills every year, according to the American Automobile Association.

A study of this phase of expense reveals, says the A. A. A. "that many motorists not only fail to put the anti-freezing solution in the radiators in time, but in a great many cases, they do not take the trouble to ascertain what the right kind of solution is. The same thing happens over and over again."

Alcohol solutions are the most favorable, the report says. Kerosene and similar oils without mixture of solutions of glucose or honey in water are sometimes used but the tests have proved that these are by no means as desirable as the alcohol solution.

DODGE BEATS ALL RECORDS

The Dodge Brothers Motor Car Company reached a new record of production achievement this month when the number of cars built during its 11 years and two months of existence reached 1,500,000.

This last car which rounded out the number was finished on January 14. Car number 1,500,000, a special touring car, though up to the minute in beauty and riding comfort, shows a striking resemblance to the first product of the Dodge factory.

TITO SCHIPA, HAILED AS CARUSO'S SUCCESSOR, TRAINS LIKE PUGILIST

TITO, THE LOVER

His success in operatic roles he attributes to a devotion for athletics and love for the open.

GOOD FOR THE LUNGS

For miles through the country, Tito spins along breathing deeply the pure air.

CAN GIVE "STRANGLER" LEWIS A GOOD BOUT

Schipa has taken on many professional wrestlers during his play hours and he is far from being an "easy mark." Tito knows the manly art as well as he does singing, but opera is his career.

ANOTHER FAVORITE SPORT

While not in Walter Hagen's class, the noted tenor can turn a pretty good card.

[illegible] the tenor takes long trips by [illegible], frequently leaving his [illegible] in some town miles distant from the Opera House and walking [illegible]. He is an ardent golfer and [illegible] a guest card in every [illegible]. He is a clever boxer, [illegible] his especial hobby, [illegible] proficient at this sport, for [illegible] his massive build fits him so [illegible] that he frequently takes on [illegible] as "Strangler" Lewis [illegible] love scenes the tenor employs a more tender strangle-hold than that he uses on his wrestling partners and the ladies who have never seen him in a gym declare him "adorable."

PRESENCE OF YOUTH LENDS CHARM TO SECOND NIGHT OF OPERA

CHICAGO COMPANY SINGS WAGNERIAN MASTERPIECE

A BEAUTIFULLY DONE PERFORMANCE OF "DIE WALKURE" delighted a crowded house of much brilliancy and importance and added a second colorful spectacle to the series now unrolling at the Opera House. Society and the art sets were in attendance, of course, and everywhere there was a joyously youthful atmosphere—many young men and girls and even the sub-debutantes and boys of school age scattered through the large audience.

THE WILLIAM GORDON MEANS box, with Mrs. Means (Constance Gardiner Minot) playing the hostess in her gracious way, had as guests the Wallace Goodriches and Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Curtis, Jr.

ALL IN BLACK VELVET, untouched with color, Mrs. Means was a distinguished figure in the gorgeously arrayed box circle. The frock breathed Paris in its every line. Her jewels were pearls in ropes and pearl bracelets.

MRS. WALLACE GOODRICH'S patrician good looks were set off superbly by her frock of Lanvin green velvet, worn with the richest of opera wraps, a velvet with sable borders. Her favorite headdress, a bandeau of diamonds, added brilliancy to the ensemble.

COMPLETING THE trio of handsome matrons, Mrs. Curtis wore a robe de style in soft sky blue with touches of rose about the neck. Mrs. Means entertains again on Thursday, and will in all probability have the Hon. Henry Getty Chilton in her box.

THE E. SOHIER WELCH box shared last evening with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sturgis Grew, was a family affair with the youthful members of both families in attendance, the young people quite enthralled with the Wagnerian offering.

MRS. E. SOHIER WELCH wore pink velvet, banded in sable, with pale blue and silver wrap, both hem and deep collar of lovely soft ostrich fronds. Mrs. Grew wore a beaded crepe, of iridescent tints ranging from pale to deep rose, and sable wrap.

YOUTHFUL MEMBERS of the party were Miss Barbara Welch, Miss Ethel Grew and Henry Sturgis Grew, Jr. In fact, the opera audience was essentially youthful in tone. Young girls were conspicuous in several boxes.

IN THE WELD BOX Mrs. Charles Goddard Weld gave over entertainment to her daughter, Miss Mary Weld. With her was Miss Virginia Gardner, in black velvet, a smart affair of slender lines. Miss Weld's opera gown was gold tissue with deep rose-red tulle. Diamonds gleamed here and there on the corsage.

HAROLD JEFFERSON COOLIDGE had his pretty bud daughter, Miss Emily Coolidge, in his box. She wore a fire-cracker red crepe in young girl mode, just the tone to best set off her piquant type of attractiveness. Harold J. Coolidge, Jr., was in the box.

MRS. B. H. BRISTOW DRAPER was a radiant figure as hostess in the Draper box. Her gown a gorgeous French model of white crepe entirely covered with design of crystal beads. Her jewels were pearls in magnificent ropes and diamonds.

IN HER GROUP were Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Leeson, Mrs. Leeson in rose and gold lace; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taft, the latter in white satin with design of gold, her jewels diamonds and pearls; Mr. and Mrs. George Warren, Mrs. Warren also in white, a French frock of the true Parisian simplicity and chic.

THE T. MORRIS MURRAY box was another in which youth predominated. Miss Rosamond Murray in rose velvet had Miss Priscilla Rhodes in her party, wearing a vivid Mandarin green metal cloth combined with white.

MISS ELLEN FROTHINGHAM'S lace gown of black chantilly, Miss Louise Batchelder's tangerine crepe vividly toned with bead plastrons, Miss Helen Swann's green moire with silver threads and Miss Louise Thayer's rose red velvet were gay effects.

THE SILVER and blue frock Miss Olga Frothingham wore, the black and rose velvet of Miss Helen Grew, Miss Theresa Winsor's flowered taffeta and Miss Anna Winslow's pale rose crepe beaded in crystal lent color and beauty to the glittering scene.

OF THE OPERA regulars, without whom no performance seems quite complete, there was Mrs. Horace Binney in a gorgeous black and gold costume with wrap of flowered brocade; Mrs. Edwin Farnham Greene in black designed in gold, Mrs. John Chipman Gray in black and silver.

MRS. ROGER S. WARNER in brocade of pastel tints with rose, and ropes of pearls for jewels, was a handsome member of the party in the box for which Mrs. John C. Gray is presiding genius. The Greene box had for a part of its feminine contingent Mrs. Paul Barron Watson in black velvet.

VERY LOVELY WAS Miss Pauline Fenno, who was in the box shared jointly by her mother, Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno, and her aunt, Mrs. Graeme Haughton. Last evening Miss Fenno wore a geranium pink crepe.

ANOTHER LOVELY feminine guest was Miss Mabel Bayard Thayer, who attended with her brother, Nathaniel Thayer. Miss Thayer's gown was white crepe with silver beads, a Paris confection, and her wrap was of green velvet in the bright mint shade.

MRS. ALBERT WHITTIER in blue brocade, Miss Alice Stackpole in gold and gray metal cloth, Miss Annie Endicott Nourse in mauve, and Mrs. Ralph Bradley in rose crepe beneath a chinchilla wrap were in the orchestra stalls.

EVER SO BRILLIANT and picturesquely colorful was the promenade at the end of the second act, when Society strolled about to see and to be seen. Then are Milady's gay gown and priceless jewels visioned in all their glory.

MR. GEORGE B. DABNEY and Mrs. Dabney (Mary Fay) were in the throng, Mrs. Dabney in American Beauty velvet; also the Robert Saltonstalls and their daughter, Mrs. Saltonstall in green velvet of the deep armande shade gleaming with steel nailheads, and Miss Harriet in taffeta.

MRS. THOMAS E. P. RICE'S gown of two-toned mauve crepe with velvet bandings was a trim affair, one of the many confections in her smart wardrobe. Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Bigelow, the latter in purple velvet, and Mrs. R. Loring Young in black and gold lace with ermine wrap were in the throng.

VERY HANDSOME WAS Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins in a costume of black velvet, the front designed in a sunburst of brilliants and a single strand of the same glinting jewels in her hair.

MRS. A. LITHROW DEVENS, handsome in black and gold, and Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., in black and gold taffeta with ermine stole were each a delight to the eye. Mrs. Frothingham wore a rope of pearls and butterfly corsage ornament of diamonds.

OF WHITE SATIN with tulle and bands of sable, a gleaming frock and most becoming, was the affair Mrs. Horace L. Morison wore. Mrs. George M. Cushing was in green velvet and Mrs. John Reed Post in black with lace, her jewels pearls.

BOTH MRS. FRANCIS BACON LOTHROP and her sister, Mrs. George L. Batchelder, Jr., were in green; the one in velvet, the other in crepe. Miss Mary Post wore silk with bead design. Miss Theodora Ayer was in silver cloth with chiffon.

A HALLOWELL FAMILY group included Mr. and Mrs. H. Penrose Hallowell with their pretty daughter, Miss Ellen Hallowell, who came out a Winter or two ago. Mrs. Hallowell added to the evening's color melange with a rose velvet and Miss Hallowell contributed a green frock.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES K. CUMMINGS had their elder daughter, Miss Ethel Cummings, in their group. Mrs. Cummings was in black velvet with silver beads and Miss Cummings in a crepe frock of the blue that shades from hyacinth to purple.

VERY LOVELY WAS Mrs. Harriet [illegible], in a printed silk frock of [illegible] red and yellow. True to her predilection for [illegible] [illegible] ermore had about her shoulder a handsome one of [illegible] in bright green with flower design. Her small daughters were with her.

MRS. JOHN A. LOWELL BLAKE wore a girlish frock of green velvet in the fashionable short skirted mode, its draping caught at one side. Mrs. Morgan Butler wore delicate black lace with touches of bright blue and a wrap of seal.

A LOVELY ROSE brocade was worn by Mrs. William Endicott beneath a robe of mink, and Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer listened to the Wagner masterpiece in a gown of black velvet and opera wrap of the same ebony shade. Mrs. Ralph Flanders wore a rose brocade.

FIND THUNDER OF ANCIENT NORTH STILL VIBRANT WITH LIFE

The lure of Wagner's interpretations of the tales of the ancient scalds still holds and Mrs. Morgan Butler, one of the Hub's real music lovers, is certain to be present whenever Die Walkure, crowning achievement of the master composer.

Among those listening with rapt attention to the Chicago Opera Company's interpretation of Die Walkure was Miss Genevieve Olmstead.

Mrs. Theodore W. Ellis, ardent Wagner admirer, made a special trip from Springfield to be present at the second night's performance of Chicago singers.

Wagner's mighty tones proved an irresistible magnet to Miss Dorothy Harkins, present at the performance of Die Walkure on the second night of the Boston opera season, a treat which comes all too rarely to the Hub, in her opinion.

Die Walkure Brilliantly Sung Thrills Great Crowd

By MOSES SMITH.

The second night of opera was so much superior to the first that it is almost absurd to compare the two. Yet the main reason was the chosen piece, Wagner's "Die Walkure." Almost any sort of performance of Wagner's music drama—and last night's was an excellent one—would thrill a music-lover infinitely more than the best possible performance of the opening night's opera, "Andrea Chenier."

It is three years since any of Wagner's Ring cycle has been performed in Boston. That Boston is [illegible] starved for this sort of thing was evidenced by the [illegible] house, a house of "distinction," [illegible] advertisements [illegible] a drought, the writer is [illegible] to write of the work [illegible].

MADE BY MUSIC.

There are few pieces in all operatic literature that have such a [illegible] on the [illegible] of one hand, and they will include at least two of Wagner's own works, "Tristan" and "Die Meistersinger," and probably "Gotterdammerung." Intertwined with this remarkable score is a drama which is generally ranked as Wagner's greatest. And yet we wonder whether anyone would even notice the drama alone. What really makes the drama so poignant is the music. In this field Wagner stands alone still.

Only in rare instances, such as in Debussy's "Pelleas," does an opera get the grip on the listener that a Wagnerian music-drama does.

It is, therefore, difficult for this last night's performance to please. Many things were admirable. First honors must go to Mr. Polacco for his remarkable handling of the orchestra. A good Wagnerian performance without able conducting is unthinkable. Mr. Polacco [illegible] wonders with his men.

STARS AS BRUNNHILDE.

It is foolish to find fault because of certain obvious failings, such as the difficulty that the brass [illegible] in the second act. That was as much Wagner's fault as anyone else's. Wagner had little [illegible] for the actual players in the orchestra.

We were prepared for the beautiful conception of Brunnhilde by Cyrena van Gordon, who sang and acted in a manner to uphold the great traditions of the role. And we were similarly expectant of the great work of Alexander Kipnis in the role of Wotan, for he had shown unusual ability in Wagnerian parts while here three years ago with the ill-fated German Opera Company.

Nevertheless, it is hard to forget the impression that these two, together with Wagner's superb music [illegible].

FOUR HOURS LONG.

[illegible] who was [illegible] appeared [illegible] as [illegible] in "Tannhauser." [illegible] and she seemed at that time a [illegible] singing actress. But in "Die Walkure," it was apparent from the very beginning that she is an almost ideal Sieglinde. Voice, acting, appearance—all these things she has, and a lovely Sieglinde results.

In such excellent company, [illegible], who was the Siegmund, was, it must be confessed, a bit [illegible]. Considering that he is not primarily a singer of Wagner, however, we think he did very well.

In spite of ample cuts, the performance of "Die Walkure" took four hours. Yet they were four hours in which a powerful drama was being enacted before one. We think we [illegible] very obviously [illegible].

PRESENT ON SECOND NIGHT OF BOSTON OPERA SEASON

(Posed Especially for Boston Evening American Staff Photographers at the Opera.)

The second night of the opera season attracted a capacity audience. Among those listening intently to the strains of Germany's greatest music drama was Miss Phyllis G. Sackett.

Mrs. Mary H. Hare was noticeable among the throng of music lovers who gathered at the Chicago Opera Company's performance of Wagner's masterpiece "Die Walkure."

CONCERT FOR YOUNG PEOPLE AGAIN TODAY

At a young people's concert in Symphony Hall which will be repeated today, Michael Press led the orchestra. He recently conducted in a pair of the regular subscription concerts.

The hall was filled with very eager young listeners even though the program seemed at first glance a bit "heavy" for children. But apparently children like the Wagner of Lohengrin or the Beethoven of the Fifth Symphony just as much as they like Liadov's "Music Box" or Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade." At any rate they applauded these pieces impartially.

Bizet's First "L'Arlesienne" Suite and Rossini's Overture to "William Tell" were the other numbers on the program.

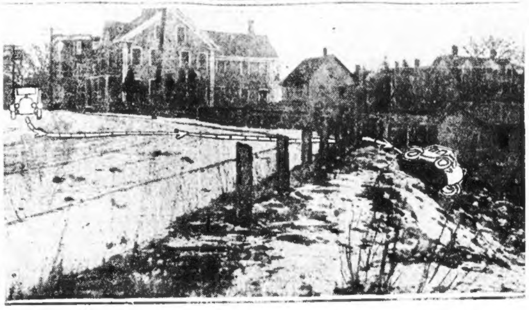
DORCHESTER MAN RISKS LIFE OF WIFE AND SELF TO AVOID KILLING AN AIREDALE

Mrs. Bertha Alpert, No. 697 Washington street, Dorchester, was pinned in an overturned car when her husband ran the machine over an embankment to save the life of a dog.

Above is a picture of the friendly Airedale which stood in the way of Robert Alpert's car when he was driving his coupe on Hallet street, Neponset. Mr. Alpert swerved his car, which ran over an embankment in time to save the life of the dog, which wagged its stumpy tail as danger passed him by.



The pictured diagram graphically describes the scene of the incident which nearly resulted in the tragic death of Mr. and Mrs. Alpert. The car is shown approaching the spot where the Airedale stood, indicated by the arrow head, then its course as it crashed through a fence and went over a steep embankment, pinning Mrs. Alpert inside. The Chevrolet sedan he was driving, and which is comparatively new, was badly damaged by the accident.

Robert Alpert, driver of the car, is conscientious in piloting his machine. He is a lover of dogs and children and his heroic act was born of a spontaneous impulse to save life even at the risk of his own.

Burke was charged with manslaughter following the death of five-year-old Julia Doherty of Vassar street, Cambridge, struck by a car driven by him. Judge Stone found no probable cause. Burke said he did not see the child until it was too late to stop.

LOMASNEY IN FIGHT OVER BAR TESTS

A movement to tighten up the educational standard for admission to the Massachusetts bar was denounced today by Martin Lomasney as "class legislation" before the legislative committee on judiciary.

George R. Nutter said the present law requires two years' attendance at an evening school or its equivalent, but he favored leaving the fixing of a standard to the Supreme Court. This was endorsed by former Attorney-General Herbert Parker and Frank M. Forbush, president of the Middlesex Bar Association.

Hollis R. Bailey, chairman of bar examiners, said he favored the Nutter bill, although his own called for a high school education or its equal.

Judge Abraham K. Cohen urged giving the character committee power to decide the fitness of an applicant, aside from his moral character. Judge Robert Grant favored this.

Dean Archer of Suffolk Law School approved the Bailey and Cohen proposals but doubted the advisability of having the standard fixed by court.

When it came Lomasney's turn to talk he said after denouncing the "class legislation":

"There should be a change in the board of examiners. Mr. Bailey, like myself, is getting old, but he doesn't know it. The real trouble about the examinations is that people get to know what the questions are likely to be as the examiners have gotten used up on their questions."

SHIELDS PLEADS GUILTY TO FOUR ALLSTON BREAKS

Four counts of breaking and entering in Brighton and Allston brought a plea of guilty today from Joseph F. Shields of No. 250 Brighton avenue, Allston, when arraigned in Brighton Court. He was held in $10,000 for the grand jury. Shields was arrested yesterday following an auto crash and, according to the police, pointed out to them two of the houses he is alleged to have entered.

PLEA FOR U. S. COAL CONTROL IN STRIKES

A petition to Congress in favor of federal control of the anthracite mines during suspension was urged today before a committee of the Legislature by Joseph LaFountaine of Brockton. Since 1900, he said, there have been seven suspensions with attendant suffering by the people. On the other hand, he pointed out, during twenty-six months of government control of the railroads, there was continual service.

'BLACK, WHITE' GIRL CASE IS DELAYED

Young Woman Locked in Club All Night Pleads Not Guilty to Idleness

Marie Clark, alias Marie Nolan, who was found locked in the rooms of the Phalanx Club, the Roxbury rendezvous better known as the "Black and White Club," pleaded not guilty today in Roxbury Court, when she was charged with being idle and disorderly.

Judge Ahearn continued her case until February 5 for investigation, and she was released on $200 bond.

The courtroom was crowded when the girl's case was called, and there were many negroes, member of the club, in the crowd.

The girl was found in the desolate clubrooms by Captain Fitzgerald and Sergeant Dickinson of the Dudley Street Station. The place had been closed since the disaster of the Pickwick Club, but had been recently reopened and the police were investigating it due to a complaint of improper fire escapes.

When they knocked on the door a voice shouted that she was locked in. They entered [illegible] and found the girl who said she had been too ill to go home the night before, had been locked in the place and had been there all day. She had contrived a bed by placing four chairs together.

COLLEGE GIRLS GOING IN STRONG FOR WINTER SPORTS THESE CHILLY DAYS

NOW FOR A RECORD!

Margaret Towne is Wellesley's champion ski jumper of course; she comes from Berlin, N. H.

BRING ON ELEONORA SEARS!

Walking, or if you please, hiking is the best exercise, say Misses Margaret Jennett and Tony Deppeler.

Their college mate, Sarah Hawley, ventures to disagree with them, putting skiing above everything else.

S'TOUGH CLIMBING BACK!

Gretel Arndt of Denver, Colo., Sarah Hawley, Nellie May Strauss of Louisville, Ky., Helen Altham of Fall River find getting back to the top the most difficult part of tobogganing.

'KICKER SLEDS' LATEST THRILL AT WELLESLEY

In spite of the fact that students are industriously "cramming" for the mid-year "exams" Winter sports still come in for their share of the day's program at Wellesley.

After the big carnival on Saturday, most of the girls are suffering from spills and bruises, but the more valiant still coast down Tower Hill and skate on the lake.

Wellesley's champion skier is Margaret Towne, a pretty girl from Berlin, N. H., who is working her way through college. She has taken cups in several skiing contests.

There has been much excitement over the advent of a "Kicker Sled," which Mr. Soderstrom of Stockholm, Sweden, is introducing to this country.

The less enterprising of the girls, however, still coast on trays, a form of sport which they have dignified by the term, "Yardling."

DEATH TAKES MRS. LUCE

Mrs. Robert Luce, wife of the Congressman, died suddenly today at the Luce home in Waltham. Congressman Luce, notified, started immediately from Washington and is expected to arrive tonight.

Mrs. Luce was Mabelle Clifton Farnham, daughter of Sam L. and Elizabeth A. Farnham of Somerville and was married to Mr. Luce in 1885.

They had no children and the only relative with Mrs. Luce when death came was her cousin, Miss Edith Stewart.

While Mrs. Luce had been ailing for some months neither her husband nor her physicians feared death so near.

Funeral arrangements will not be made until the arrival of Congressman Luce.

"TOMATO" HAS BEEN CANNED BY POLICE

Stephen Kane, 31, of Rice street, Cambridge, known to the police as "Tomato," was held for the Grand Jury in $10,000 bail today following his arraignment in East Cambridge Court on a charge of robbery at night while armed. Kane is charged with looting the till of the store of August Braun, Nos. 21-23 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, on the night of January 19.

Braun, who was in his store at the time with another man named John E. Burns, testified that Kane held them up at gunpoint and rifled the till of $14.68. Braun said although he warned them not to move for ten minutes, Burns gave chase, enlisting the aid of Patrolmen Jeremiah Reardon and John Foley. Kane was captured after a running gun battle, according to police reports.

FULLER REAPPOINTS MEDICAL EXAMINERS

Dr. W. Edward Balmer of Northbridge was reappointed medical examiner of the seventh Worcester district, and George T. Little associate medical examiner by Governor Fuller today. The Governor also appointed Robert H. Sawyer of Haverhill as a trustee of the Essex Agricultural School in place of Justin E. Varney, resigned.

No matter how good a radio program may be, it will never reach the ears of the radio listener accurately unless the proper receiving equipment is used. It is impossible to place too much stress upon the efficiency of the audio amplifier and loud-speaker, for it is through these two units that success or failure depends.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

SAMUEL CURTIS, JR., Radio Editor

A program of classical music by the Saxophone Octette, under direction of Clyde Doerr, will be the feature of WEEI's program at 8:30 tonight. WBZ will present a recital of folk songs by the Operatic Quartet at 9 o'clock.

STATIC FATAL TO FOREIGN TESTS

DX Conditions Last Night

It appeared to be a fair night so far as the amount of static was concerned. This was at a minimum. No European nor South American reception was obtained at the Boston Evening American listening station at Pembroke. Plenty of regeneration whistles could be heard and it was apparent that difficulty was being encountered by those trying for DX.

[illegible]

PUTTING UP NEW ANTENNA

Samuel Curtis and Leslie P. Barnard, Boston Evening American experts, preparing to erect the 1300-foot Beverage antenna at the special listening station at Pembroke. They used it last night.

FOLK SONGS OVER WBZ

In the realm of American folk song no figure stands out more prominently than Harold Vincent Milligan, who will be heard over WBZ in a lecture recital illustrated by the Operatic Quartet tonight from 9:00 to 10:00 o'clock.

This recital, presented under the direction of the Gibbs Piano Co., will deal with American folk songs, including Negro spirituals, which Mr. Milligan has recently arranged. The Operatic Quartet includes William Spittal, tenor; Mrs. Helen C. Triplett, soprano; Mrs. Ruth Borg Ekborg, contralto, and Walter B. Marsh, baritone. Mrs. Dorothy B. Mulroney will accompany.

It was Mr. Milligan who revived the songs of Francis Hopkinson, signer of the Declaration of Independence, jurist, and otherwise eminent citizen, who spoke of himself as the first native American composer, in a letter written to George Washington in 1778.

Show talk.

MOSCOW HEARS FROM U. S.

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—Radio fans, who have been struggling with static, snow, rain and general storm conditions during the first part of the third international broadcasting tests, are now hopeful the worst is over.

They are awaiting tonight's tests with confidence that from now on they will have smooth sailing.

While reports of European reception of American efforts were slow in arriving, the American fans were cheered by the report that the single quarter of an hour which they saved from the SOS standby period on Monday night had enabled them to reach Moscow, as WGY and WJZ of New York and WOR of Newark were picked up by Russian fans.

American stations again will go on the air at 10 o'clock Eastern time tonight, and the foreign stations will begin at 11.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM.

The foreign stations that will broadcast are [illegible], Madrid; LOW and LOV, Buenos Aires; [illegible], Vienna; [illegible], Lima, Peru, and stations at Prague, [illegible], Hamburg, Berlin, Brussels, Munich and Munster.

[illegible] and telegrams still poured in today with their tale of triumphs of fans in snatching distant stations' programs out of the air. Their story supplemented the first reports that told of San Francisco enjoying music from [illegible], Vienna, and [illegible], Lima, Peru, of Denver hearing Stuttgart, Germany, and LOW of Buenos Aires, and of New Jersey fans and Omaha fans simultaneously listening to the 5WA, Cardiff, Wales, program. Omaha also joined with New Bedford, Mass., in picking up Aberdeen, Scotland.

FROM THE ANTIPODES.

Most eagerly of all, Station WOC of Davenport, Ia., and WGY of Schenectady, N. Y., awaited word from Cape Town, South Africa, and Melbourne, Australia, to tell whether their ambitious effort to circle the globe had been successful.

[illegible] in an attempt to send American greetings and American music to the distant listeners on the plains of Australia or in the jungles of Africa, these two stations broadcast on four wave lengths. The Iowa station made its announcements in fifteen languages over the two long wave lengths.

Berlin, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—The American programs broadcast during international radio week have been heard but faintly in Germany, according to results thus far reported. Music or addresses have been picked up on wave lengths of 325, 250, 450 and 421 meters, but the listeners could not identify the sending stations. Interference by ships' wireless has proved a great hindrance.

Attempts by stations conducted in various parts of Germany by the technical bureau of the ministry of posts and telegraphs to hear the American programs have been unsuccessful.

Radio Queries

Q. M. H., South Easton. Can you advise in your Radio Query column the approximate length of time three dry cells should last when hooked up to a three tube set using 199 tubes?

A. This of course depends upon how many hours a day the set is used. Figuring average use, I would look for three to four weeks' service. A far more economical procedure would be to use six dry cells in multiple series. This would still give 4½ volts, but would give over twice the reserve power. This arrangement would last two or three months.

Q. D. C. C., Quincy. How are pictures sent by radio?

SAXOPHONE '8' ON AIR TONIGHT

The unusual and subdued blending of the Saxophone Octette under the leadership of Clyde Doerr, will be heard through WEEI tonight at 8:30 o'clock. So successful has been the work of this group in presenting classical music, which has hitherto been declared "impossible" on the saxophone, that listeners find it difficult to realize that they are hearing eight of these instruments.

The program tonight will open with MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," followed by the old favorite, "Just a Song at Twilight." The third number, "I Love You," by Grieg, will feature Clyde Doerr as soloist, playing three saxophones, the soprano, alto and baritone. The operatic offering will be from Gounod's "Faust." Popular numbers will fill the remainder of the program.

24-HOUR MUSIC BARRAGE IN AIR

New York, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—A 24-hour barrage of music that is expected to strike points of the globe never before reached by American broadcasting, was sent out today by Station WLW, Cincinnati, in the most ambitious program of the third international radio tests.

Promptly at 7 a. m. the Ohio station took the air in an "endurance" trial with the hope that its special musical numbers would radiate to every part of the world. With the prospect before it of plenty of daylight, which is favorable to distance broadcasting, the results of its experiment were being awaited eagerly by the radio week committee.

A special program, including jazz and all of the favorite popular and classical numbers was sent. Only once during the twenty-four hours will the station "stand by," and that will be tonight between 10 and 11 o'clock, when the continental stations are on the air.

Vienna, Jan. 27 (A.P.)—The sending of an American station in the international radio tests penetrated as far as Vienna this morning when the superintendent of the Aspern Aviation Weather Bureau, in the suburbs of this city, picked up a program on a set especially constructed for the purpose.

KNICKERBOCKER CLUB TO BE HEARD IN NEW SERIES

The Knickerbocker Club is not to be off the air despite the fact that this Boston organization finished a series of ten concerts at station WNAC, the Shepard Stores. Through the courtesy of the Salleon Company the Knickerbocker Club is to be a regular feature at WNAC, and the new concert series starts tonight at 8 o'clock.

AFRICAN GIANTS VERIFY ARTIST'S SYMBOL

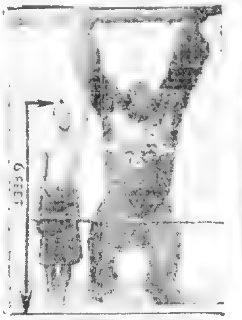
Carl W. Akeley, noted naturalist and sculptor, is shown above, with his sculptural conception in bronze, "The Chrysalis," symbolizing man emerging from gorilla ancestry. The bronze has been refused admittance to the National Academy of Design and is expected to create a furore. Akeley, in the face of criticism, grimly remarks: "The more I see of my fellow men the more I love gorillas."



Almost simultaneously with the appearance of Akeley's "The Chrysalis" comes T. ## To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are made of pine and syrup. The "syrup" is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel it take right hold of a cough or cold. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid too for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Prince was not injured.

The Prince had just cleared a fence and on landing his mount fell dead. The Prince fell on his side and sustained a slight bruise but otherwise appeared to be unhurt. He mounted another horse and resumed the hunt.

Later he and the Duke of York left for London.

QUEEN'S COUNSEL

by Marie Queen of Roumania

KING CAROL OF RUMANIA

CAROL of Hohenzollern was Rumania's first King.

He was called from Germany when quite a young man to take upon himself the difficult task of ruling and organizing a country full of vitality and promise, but which needed to be led by a wise ruler towards greater development than could be obtained under local rule.

For many reasons Rumanians felt the necessity of calling a foreigner to be their sovereign. It would end various quarrels and family feuds as to who should rightly head the country.

Carol did not come down to Rumania as King, but with the title of Prince. In those days, it must be borne in mind, Rumania was still vassal to Turkey — only half a century ago.

It was after the Russo-Turkish War into which Rumania entered on the side of the Russians and Bulgarians that King Carol declared himself independent of Turkish sway and allowed himself to be crowned King by his grateful subjects.

Wise had been Rumania's choice of King Carol, imbued as he was with all the German ideals of order, duty and hard work. He [illegible] time. A political and social structure was built on a good constitutional basis, elementary schools were started, modeled on the French system, gradually raising the peasants from a serfdom they had known for centuries.

His was the real leader's spirit. He was severe but just. He had a strong hand and an indomitable will. Possessed of an iron sense of duty, he expected the same of others and was relentless toward those that defaulted.

A small man with aquiline nose, dark beard and keen blue eyes, he knew how to cow and dominate all protesters with a single look which none ever dared disobey.

We young ones both feared and loved him, but his hand was heavy and he understood nothing of the natural cravings of youth. Work being his passion he had no patience with those who desired to play.

He ruled nearly fifty years and was a model of kingly virtue, energy, patience, yet he was respected more than loved. He was too hard, too lonely, too masterful to inspire real confiding love.

A Lost FORTUNE—
A Strange ACCIDENT—
A Brave GIRL—

"You remember how carefully Dad always drove his car, don't you?" Ethel asked.

"I remember he was a careful driver, yes. Had to be, in a way—seeing he was Judge," replied Mr. Briggs.

"Well, then," said Ethel earnestly, "didn't it ever strike you that there was something queer about his accident?"

This accident is the crux of the story. At the death of Judge Marland, Ethel, a daughter by his first wife, returns East. She finds Aunt Myra, a sister of the Judge's second wife tyrannizing over her step-brothers and step-sisters. Then Aunt Myra disappears. Trust funds handled by the Judge also vanish. TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color With Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use for only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

POSTAGE STAMP LOVE

By Louis A. Cunningham

LITTLE AFFAIRS when young [illegible] ... [illegible] were the smiles and killing looks that greeted Bob O'Brien on his daily tours along East [illegible] ... [illegible] a cheery word for each and [illegible] though he accepted their homage as his due, he was quite convinced that servant-maids, however ravishing, were just a little bit out of his class.

The cupid darts that slew untold hosts of man-servants, janitors and policemen left Bob smilingly unscratched till Rose Killorn came to work for the Wordens.

No Way Humbled

To make a long story short, Rose, who lived up to her name, failed to fall for Bob's ready smile, looked over his shoulder instead of into his eyes and gave him about as much attention as she would a letterbox—this treatment to Bob O'Brien, who looked like the postmen in the magazine ads bringing another fifty-dollar check to poets, authors and auto-knitters.

[illegible] humbled. With true masculine contrariety he pined for what, if freely offered, he might have mistrized. Skillfully he campaigned for Rose's heart. He bowed and kowtowed to her as though she were the mistress. The Worden letter-box grew as rusty as the door bell battery grew feeble, only Rose could receive the mail.

A dozen pairs of jealous eyes watched Bob make eager love to Rose, and as the days progressed and monthly bills came around again, Bob won. Like a conqueror he led her forth to a movie one Thursday night.

Woe to the victor in this case. Before two weeks had passed, Robert, unconsciously boasting to little Rose of his power to capture female hearts, found himself bereft of his prize. Very manlike, especially since he was a trifle vain of his charming personality, he wanted Rose more than ever.

The Worden letter-box, long out of order, was at once repaired and Mr. O'Brien was requested by a stony-eyed, maddeningly disdainful Rose to drop the mail therein.

I rea[illegible] had a letter for the lady of his thoughts by day and dreams by night. Now there was nothing unusual about the mere fact of having a letter for her, but . . . the stamp was inverted and the return address was was Mr. George Gale, 76 West Wayne Street, Gary, Indiana.

Turned Green

Bob's eyes turned from blue to green. He knew stamps very well and sentimentally had learned the significance of their different positions on a letter. Very eloquent things, stamps.

"It's a kiss he's sending her and it's from one of the friends she made in that smoky place when she worked there." Bob pushed the distasteful missive into the box, viciously and vainly wishing that it might get lost.

Two days later came another letter with a lop-sided stamp shamelessly proclaiming love eternal from the sender to the receiver. Rose was at the door and her delight at the sight of the letter that Bob coldly tendered he [illegible] wood to the [illegible] She [illegible] to it when his back was [illegible] over his [illegible] How long and dreary his route seemed that day.

She was fickle he decided; she had not cared for him at all; she wasn't worthy of him. But for all that, he wanted her more, as is the nature of simple man.

The letters came with enraging frequency. The stamps proclaimed intimate and tender love and promise of marriage. It was fine torture for Bob to have to be a mediary for a woman he adored and another man. He meditated a homicidal visit to Gary. George Gale was not worth a deadletter to Mr. O'Brien.

Insured Parcel

Rose Killorn grew more bewitching with each successive letter, just as Bob dropped lower and took on the look of a rejected puppy with a soup can tied to its tail. Several times he had tried to plead with her. He had been met with unyielding scorn. At the end of two weeks of wooing by means of the tiny red oblongs, Robert was driven to desp[illegible] I [illegible] M[illegible] morning of [illegible] week [illegible] torment [illegible] parcel, a tiny box [illegible] tained a ring for Rose. [illegible] affected to stop calmly and reason, Bob at once concluded it was a diamond for Rose's left fourth finger and the little cry of happiness with which she received it confirmed [illegible] belief.

"May I wish you all happiness, Miss Killorn," he said, in his grandest official manner.

"You may, Mr. O'Brien," she answered in her sweetest maidenly way.

"He's a lucky man, indeed."

"Now do you really think so? Who could you be meanin' by that?"

"Him that talks to you by the postage-stamp route and sent you the ring," said Bob bitterly and stamped away.

He heard Rose giggle and snubbed three adoring servant girls along his route.

Rose greeted him with a smile next day. She could afford to smile thought Bob, loving her hopelessly.

"Won't you come to see me Thurs[illegible] asked [illegible] I —? [illegible] She w[illegible] painfully. "I kinda thought I [illegible] Would you have married me now if I hadn't been so conceited?"

"Are you s[illegible]

"Indeed I am." Her dark, curly head was near his [illegible] all those l[illegible]

"Oh, they don't matter at all." He kissed her then. "[illegible] one. Read."

And the simple postman read:

"Dear Rose:

"I [illegible] feel [illegible] I'm fed up and [illegible] name's not Gale.

"Your affectionate brother,

"Mike."

"Ye clever little rogue," said Bob, kissing her again.

"You dear, jealous postman," murmured Rose.

"Rev. Hill was compelled to give up the place on account of a desire to live and the local congregation being unable financially to keep the church going. It is not known whether another minister will be assigned here or not."

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

BOBBY could hardly take his eyes from his book, so absorbed in it was he.

"What are you reading, Bobby?" I asked finally.

"The Snow Queen," answered Bobby politely, but scarcely looking up from his page.

"Ah, Hans Christian Andersen!" I exclaimed. "How well I remember those stories."

"I wonder what he was like," mused Bobby. "Do you know, Foxy Grandpa?"

"He was a Dane," I replied, "and I know that he was the son of a very poor cobbler."

"Tell me some more," urged the boy.

"Let me see if I can remember," I went on: "Hans Andersen lived in a little town called Odense in Denmark, I think, and although his father was a shoemaker, he was a very studious man and read many books after he had finished work. And by his side was his tall, lanky son, Hans, who read with him.

"But his father and mother were not very strict about the education of their son, and he did not go to school regularly. Hans was a particularly sensitive child, who could not stand being punished, and he found the discipline of the school very irksome.

"When Hans was about eleven his father died, and it was not very long before he had a stepfather.

"Now this stepfather did not have any time for the shiftless Hans, who simply idled away his time and dreamed dreams and didn't study.

"So very soon, with a little package on the end of a stick which his mother had packed for him, and less than $10 in his pocket, Hans got on the coach and drove to Copenhagen, where he hoped to make his fortune.

"But his fortune did not come very quickly and there were many days when the young man was cold and hungry because he didn't make as much money writing stories and plays as he thought he would.

"Hans wanted to be a great dramatist and write plays or to be a poet. For a time he was popular as a novelist, but it was the children's stories which gave him fame. And these he told to amuse little friends of his in Copenhagen.

"Poor Hans couldn't afford to marry and he grew to be an old bachelor. So he did not have any children of his own to tell stories to, which is very sad."

"Didn't he ever get rich?" asked Bobby.

"No," I answered. "Hans Andersen was too much of a dreamer to think about money, and, like many literary men, he had no business head. But he grew famous and, from the boy who was the laughing stock of his own village, he became one of the greatest men of his country. And his name has spread all over the world and is loved by thousands of children."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

NO financier would start the year without a budget first made out, that he have knowledge clear of cash to be disbursed. For all the needs of everyday allowances are made, with plans mapped out the whole year's way of bills which must be paid. Financial wizards are but few, but all of us must pay our debts of love and kindness through the whole year, day by day. So why not budget these, and then be sure we can't forget the share we owe all fellowmen of living's daily debt?

OH, it isn't so much just the things that may come in the course of the busy day that can add themselves into grief's dark sum or a total that's bright and gay! For the blisses that enter in one man's hours may bring to him gladness and peace, with a sense of the calm of Elysian bowers and the wonder of woe's surcease. Yet another in all of these joys may share with no heart for the raptures they bring, and his path will be dull with the weight of care and his day but a sombre thing. Or, it isn't so much what the long years may bring; good and bad come alike to us all, and still some of us whimper and some of us sing; but the wise bravely greet what may fall.

HAYDEN DENIES SELLING TO SO. PACIFIC

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Charles Hayden

All efforts by the Sherlock Holmeses of finance to unravel the mysteries of the Frisco-Rock Island affair have brought out some interesting gossip in the past day or two. One of the most colorful of these yarns had it that Charles Hayden, who has been in the saddle in Rock Island affairs since 1917, had "sold out" to the Southern Pacific by giving the latter an option on his holdings in the company. Mr. Hayden denies explicitly that he has sold a share of stock to the Southern Pacific or given the company an option on a share. Southern Pacific's ultimate alliance with Rock Island in one form or another has been believed in for so long that it is hard to down the idea that it no longer is a probability. Yet on the face of things as they stand there seems but little chance of that system now coming into possession of the Rock Island.

There were widespread reports that U. S. Steel would pay an "extra extra." It did not do so at yesterday's meeting. Instead the regular $5 dividend rate was continued with the "regular" $2 extra.

* * *

On January 14, under the headline, "U. S. Steel Not Likely to Pay More," we printed the following: "It is possible that the directors of U. S. Steel, sometimes referred to as the world's premier industrial, will see fit to increase the size of the $2 extra dividend now being distributed along with the $5 regular dividend on its common stock. Dame Rumor, notoriously unreliable, says they will. The writer considers it unlikely. As I write U. S. Steel is selling to yield about 5¼ per cent on its market price, providing the present 'extra' is taken into consideration. It would more benefit the stock market were we to have this 'extra' definitely labeled regular, making Steel a 7 per cent stock, and it would cost the company nothing additional to label it so. Reluctance of the directors to place Steel on a definite 7 per cent basis indicates to some that they are doubtful of Steel's ability to earn much better than its regular 5 per cent dividend over a period of years. It took years of waiting for Steel stockholders to see the extra dividend given. The directors acted with proper conservatism. Is it likely they will so suddenly wax prodigal? We do not believe it."

The Giants of Today

THE story-book giants of childhood performed no greater wonders than do these of the 20th century. Day and night, they supply every modern community with the electrical force that is carrying the whole world forward. Power and light companies have provided the means for safe investment with a fair income return, but like other types of industry there are certain factors which determine the true worth of a particular company. The property factor is one that should be thoroughly analyzed before investing.

Property

You can see your money invested in central stations, with their whirring generators, because they are above ground. But you don't see the great underground distribution system of cables and wires. From the chart above it is seen that in a typical central station plant 41.5% represents investment in Distribution System; 40.2% in Generating Stations; and 18.3% in supplies such as coal, materials, meters, bulbs, etc.

Investments

How many investors give enough attention to property? The Old Colony maintains trained engineers who examine, in the field, the properties of nearly all the companies whose securities they offer. A general knowledge of the comparative importance of territory served, character of operation, financial structure and the property account should aid the investor in obtaining a more intelligent choice of securities.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SHARES TAKE SLUMP

A lot of 200 shares of Boston Chamber of Commerce Realty Trust 7 p. c. cumulative first preferred shares was offered in the outside market this morning at 75 with no bids. Tuesday the best bid was 50, against recent quotations of 85 to 90. The current weakness reflects decision of the trustees to defer further dividends on the $1,500,000 of stock outstanding until enough additional space is leased and income derived therefrom to care for the increase in taxes proposed by the city of Boston and cover requirements of the first preferred stock. The building is now 80 per cent. occupied.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER TRACT BRINGS MILLION

International Paper Company has sold to Woodstock Lumber Company its 20,000 acre timber tract at Waterville, N. H., for about $1,000,000. Under present conditions this tract is not available for supplying the company's American mills with pulpwood economically, and has, for this reason, been disposed of.

Hydro-electric power installation on the Gatineau River, Canada, has been expanded and will produce 180,000 horsepower, instead of 150,000 as previously planned.

Grains Sell Higher

Chicago grains were higher. Opening quotations on wheat, ⅝ to ⅞c. higher, May new $1.74½ to $1.74¾ and July $1.50¾ to $1.51 were followed by moderate further gains and then something of a reaction. Corn and oats were firmer, sympathizing with wheat.

Clemenceau Tells America the Plain Truth

Clemenceau, wonderful old Tiger of France, makes a statement which should interest all Americans, particularly since the government at Washington is now engaged in the greatest piece of nullification in our history—the projection of this nation into the League of Nations through the World Court, its little decoy.

Clemenceau says that "Woodrow Wilson did not understand Europe!"

This is precisely what the American people thought and precisely what the American people said in the election of 1920, and again in the election of 1924, when they buried the League of Nations and everything related to it beneath an avalanche of ballots.

One can understand why Woodrow Wilson did not understand Europe in his day, but one cannot understand why any American in his right mind cannot understand Europe now.

When Mr. Wilson went abroad he stepped into an epoch of delirium. Europe hailed him as Victory incarnate. In him millions were pleased to discover all our nation gave, all our soldiers did. The kingly habit was in the blood of Europe's people, and it got into Mr. Wilson's blood at the end. He floated upon a shoreless sea of adulation, one which would have drowned the self-possession of almost any man.

Cities and States bowed down before him; he heard nothing but flattery; he inhaled nothing but incense; he could walk nowhere except upon flowers, and there came into his mind the vision of making the whole world over, according to a better plan.

Mr. Wilson thought he saw the real Europe in that rose-tossing frenzy, but he did not. We have seen the real Europe in this epithet-tossing period, when Uncle Sam has been stripped of his former halo and branded as a Shylock!

Clemenceau thought he saw the real France in the weeping form which implored deliverance when the Germans hammered at the gates of Paris, but he did not. Clemenceau did see the real France in that later day, when, after he had saved her, she drove him from power!

The American people, wiser in the instinct of millions of minds than their temporary leaders, understand Europe even better now than they did in 1920 or in 1924, but they do not understand—they cannot understand—their own Senators who now misrepresent the sentiment of the people.

Wilson was intoxicated by the adulation of a world, but these Senators who betray their States have no such romantic extenuation. For them no public holidays have been declared, no parks dedicated, no flowers plucked, no incense burned.

The Democratic Senators are prepared to do this World Court wrong simply because Woodrow Wilson asked it—Wilson, who, in the words of Clemenceau, "did not understand Europe!"

And against their own best judgment the majority of the Republican Senators are prepared to do this thing because President Coolidge asks it.

United States Senators are not elected to represent the President; United States Senators are elected to represent the people who sent them to Washington!

And we remind all Senators that while the imperfections of our democracy may, for the hour, place them beyond the power of those who made them, the day of reckoning shall come and for many it shall come soon, and those who have been false to America shall return to the obscurity from which they came and return to stay!

Henry Ford's Knees and Ankles Are Young

Which Proves That He Is Young. Watch Your Knees

Doctors tell you that a man is "as old as his arteries." That refers to the average man, who is usually old TOO SOON. His chances depend on the condition of his arteries. If they have hardened, lost elasticity and therefore check the flow of the blood, creating what is wrongly called "blood pressure," since it is really ARTERY PRESSURE, then his days are short.

But with the man that grows old normally the question is not about the arteries, but rather about the whole working machine.

For the right kind of man drifting toward what is called "old age," the KNEES and the ANKLES indicate the physical condition.

If a man of fifty or sixty finds it painful to "squat down on his hunkies" and is unable to struggle to his feet again, without using his hands on a chair or on the edge of a bathtub, then old age is overtaking him.

If a man tries to skate as he did in his boyhood and his ankles ache and turn over and his knees lack elasticity, then he is growing old.

If a man raising his arms up straight in the air bends forward, drawing in his stomach, keeping his knees stiff, and finds that he cannot go down to the floor with his finger tips, that is the beginning of old age.

You have seen pictures of Henry Ford skating and dancing old-fashioned dances.

He puts on his SKATES FOR HIMSELF, no protruding stomach about HIS makeup.

Between Henry Ford's head and his feet there is no accumulation of unnecessary fat, no embonpoint to prevent lacing his own shoes.

In old age, BEWARE OF FAT.

Eat carefully, exercise regularly, never VIOLENTLY.

WATCH YOUR JOINTS. They will retain their flexibility if you do not stop using them. Walk, run, stoop down, bend over, but do nothing VIOLENTLY, when you are past forty years old.

There is another kind of stiffness that has nothing to do with the joints and that stiffness is IN THE BRAIN.

We all keep on breathing, eating; some of us keep on exercising. Not one in a hundred keeps on THINKING.

If you keep your BRAIN exercised, all of its "joints" working easily, you are to be envied even though your knees get stiff, your stomach big, your arteries hard and your ankles weak.

VENUS CALENDAR OF THE MAYAS

By Garret P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

DR. H. J. SPINDEN, of Harvard, has brought to light the existence of a "Venus calendar" invented and used by that mysterious ancient American people, the Mayas of Yucatan.

Venus is conspicuously before the eyes of all the world just now, playing her brilliant role of evening star, so that the announcement of the discovery comes at a time when additional interest may be added to it by the bodily presence of the splendid celestial object to which it relates.

Five or six hundred years before Christ the strange Central American people who constructed those now forest-hidden and time-worn temples and pyramids, and carved the impressive but hideous images of their gods, which are apt to make us shudder as we look at them, watched Venus with an intentness exceeding that of most astronomers today and being (at least some of them) wonderfully accurate observers and good arithmeticians, they measured and calculated the bright planet's movements with admirable exactitude.

Remarkable Results.

They were great permuters, and with their permutations and combinations they produced remarkable results in relating their system of months and days to the natural year, and perhaps nobody has ever dealt more successfully than they with the refractory ranks of the days which refuse absolutely to keep perfect step with either the lunar month or the solar year. They knew as well as we do that there are about 365¼ days in a year.

Dr. Spinden has succeeded in hitching their chronology with ours in ways which promise to throw much light upon their mysterious history and their yet undeciphered inscriptions. The Venus calendar was only one of their inventions concerning time keeping.

They also used practically the same device that Europeans have so much plumed themselves upon since the sixteenth century, that namely of a continuous record of the days, beginning at a fixed epoch and running in regular numerical order straight up to the present. This is illustrated by our Julian period and Julian day number, which astronomers have found to be invaluable in avoiding chronological confusion.

The epoch, i. e., the point of commencement fixed for the Julian system, is the date January 1, A. D., 4,713. Each Julian period consists of 7,980 Julian years of 365¼ days each. The year 1926 is the 6,639th year of the Julian period. January 1, 1926, is the 2,424,517th day from the beginning of the Julian period.

The Mayas did not do what Julius Caesar did many centuries later. They did not try to keep the months fixed in position by such a device as leap year, but they let them move along, knowing, nevertheless, where they were with reference to the seasons by the aid of a day-counting device similar to that of the Julian period.

The perfectioning of their calendar seems to have been the work of a great genius, and this great man turns out to have been the famous Quetzalcoatl, whose formidable name had been long known in connection with hideous carvings identified with a "snake-god," and who is also celebrated as a great Toltec scholar and leader.

Darkened Efforts.

So, every new chapter of the past that research opens for us repeats the same story, viz., that the great leaps of progress are made not by the average intelligence of the mass of mankind, and not by the combined intelligence of the minor leaders of the masses, but by the singular powers of some extraordinary genius.

The unpleasing thing in this resurrected history of a wonderful race which did so much to honor the western world long centuries before the eastern world knew of its existence, is the evidence that superstition darkened all of its intellectual efforts, as it darkened those of ancient Assyria, Chaldea and Egypt.

ARE YOU ONE OF THOSE WHO ENJOY QUARRELING?

Do you enjoy quarrels?

Do you get tired of the quiet, uneventful life and welcome a wordy battle once in a while?

The fact that this results in pain and discomfiture for others involved does not cut any figure with you.

You long for a change—a little variety—and are willing to promote anything, even a quarrel, just to see how it will end.

Have you ever tried to analyze this trait?

You go along sometime in a sane, well-balanced, kind and thoughtful manner and then suddenly you develop a scrappy temper.

Because you get a kick out of an altercation you start one.

Often it results in serious combat.

After such an encounter you feel contrite but better.

But your friends feel decidedly worse, and your apologies cannot take back the sting of words you only half meant.

It is a mighty cruel form of amusement.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

MYRTLE wants to know how she can "acquire a taste for good books." There are serious reasons why Myrtle should acquire this taste as speedily as possible. She has married a young newspaper man whose family and friends all have a genuine love for fine writing and stimulating thought.

It is a very amazing new world to Myrtle. Hitherto she has been with people whose idea of a successful evening was to roll back the rug, put on a new record and then hop to it. A carefree, noisy bunch of Live Wires who gave not a thought to the High Hats.

Then Myrtle suddenly fell in love with one of those despised High Hats and now she finds herself stranded. They all try to be nice to her, but nevertheless she feels as if she had dropped into another world.

"Elsie, you would think I was a perfect dumbbell the way I sit around. They might as well be talking Chinese for all of me. I got a lot of the books they talk about and decided I would wise myself up. But honest, they gave me a pain in the neck. I suppose I am an awful low brow, Elsie, but I couldn't see a thing to them.

"I always was crazy about reading, too. But my idea of reading is a nice, snappy love story or else a thrilling detective novel—something with a kick to it."

Myrtle is an honest little soul. Many more of us get "a pain in the neck" when we try to read "high hat books," but we're afraid to acknowledge it. Let the desire to read those books persist. We know we'd add to our own value if we could read them. And it humiliates us to feel that we can't read them. Yet how in heck are we going to really like to read them?

The first step toward learning to like good books is to understand what good books really are.

Good books are not collections of long words and tiresome thoughts. They are cross sections of life.

Good books are really much nearer to life than bad books.

For example, Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina" is an infinitely more thrilling account of the feeling and fate of a fallen woman than the most lurid sex novel of the day. It is more thrilling because it shows you what actually happened to Anna and what would actually happen to ninety-nine women out of a hundred instead of presenting the imaginary explosions of some impossible giddy female.

Good books help you fight trouble, within and without yourself. They help you build power. They help you find happiness. They set you free.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

ACCORDING to magazine advertisements a man doesn't have to have good looks or brains to win a girl. All he needs is a saxophone.

WITH one of these musical instruments he has more parlors at his disposal than a burglar.

SOME men can win a girl with a ukulele, but a fellow with a saxophone can come along and take her away from him.

AS one guy said, "When I takes them away, they stay took."

PIANISTS are popular, too, but a fellow who goes out quite a lot can't carry a piano around with him.

ONE man lost his girl by trying to read Shakespeare to her. He won her back the next evening by singing and playing "Bobbed-haired mama, come give your bald-headed daddy a kiss."

SHE became so crazy about him that she even kept up the payments on his saxophone.

HE sold every volume of Thackeray, Dickens and Shakespeare and bought a bunch of musical instruments.

ON "KISSING AND TECHNIQUE."

KISSING is AN ART,
Though one would
Never think it.
If MEN could only
KISS BETTER they Could kiss MORE
WOMEN. That is
To say, they would
Have a BIGGER VARIETY
And END by kissing
LESS. Of course,
Men are NOT so
GREEDY for kisses as WOMEN
IMAGINE; for MANY women
Are as DISAPPOINTING
To MEN as MEN are
To WOMEN, which is
Saying a GOOD DEAL.
A KISS SHOULD BE
BORN of IMPULSE
(Like, for instance,
The kiss of a pretty
Woman receiving
A valuable gift).
OR, it should be born
Of a GREAT DESIRE
On THE MAN'S PART
To SHOW A WOMAN ALL
HE THINKS of her—for
BOTH of these occasions
Require TRUE TECHNIQUE
And—INSPIRE IT.

SNATCHES OF STREET CONVERSATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE amount of adventure and romance a person gets out of life is determined more from within than from without.

Such interesting adventures in the realm of the everyday as David Grayson and Maurice Maeterlinck have seen romance and beauty where others saw only the commonplace.

An author like de Maupassant creates a story that plumbs the depths of human nature from such an uninspiring object as a piece of string.

Whether you try to write stories or not a lot of enjoyment can be added to your life if you seek to see the interesting little things that most people miss.

If you have trained your imagination to see stories in little twists of the commonplace you will carry your own amusement with you.

Take for instance snatches of street conversations.

Have you ever been walking along the street, and overhearing a snatch of conversation by some passerby, in half a dozen words see revealed a little drama of life, an interesting character, or a fascinating quirk of human nature?

Here are a half dozen snatches of street conversation. See what kind of stories your imagination can work out from them.

1—One Jewish boy talking to another. "He didn't know the difference. He was only an Irish Mick!"

2—A tottering old man, pegging along on a cane, towed by a buxom, energetic, middle-aged woman. He wheezes: "I am trying to walk as fast as I can."

3—Two young women, one flashily dressed, the other carrying a crying baby. The one with the crying baby stops to comfort it. The other: "Leave him be, will you? Come on!"

4—A bent, white-haired old laborer carrying a big piece of iron pipe over his shoulder, says to a middle-aged companion: "Yes, sir, when anyone calls me 'old man' it makes me mad."

5—Before a Broadway hotel, 11:30 Sunday morning, a woman to a man who seems anxious to break away: "But, who are you going to call on at this hour of the morning? Nobody will be up yet."

6—One old man to another: "Yus, Sur, it's all right for a feller to go out with the girls. Adam couldn't live alone even in the Garden of Purridise!"

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

ABOUT a hundred letters asking [illegible] question have come to me, [illegible] I wrote that article telling "what makes a woman love a man."

Helen Rowland

If I knew the answer, dear heart, I should be somewhere in a palace on the Riviera, on a honeymoon with the Prince of Wales or Rudolph Valentino, instead of sitting here at my desk.

* * *

A man loves a woman for the same reasonless reason, for which a woman loves a man—"just because."

* * *

He will pass by the woman who would make him happy for life—and marry the one who will make him most miserable.

* * *

He will risk the life-long love of a queen of all the charms and virtues in the world, in order to flirt with a little two-spot, with a naughty little twinkle in her eye and a "gimme-complex."

* * *

He will exchange the Kohinoor of a great romance, for a string of cheap imitation glass-bead adventures and flirtations.

* * *

A woman with the face of a Madonna and the brilliancy of a Madame de Stael will leave him cold, while a little dumb-bell with a turned-up nose, a weak chin and a dimple, will leave him trembling with emotion.
